

The Papaya that Spoke Story Mat

Once upon a time there was farmer who lived village One day felt hungry so went out pick papaya To his amazement the spoke hands off looked dog you said Aargh screamed fast legs could carry ran till came market fisherman fish why are running when sun bright asked next impossible replied isn't field shepherd goats after that bleated King sitting old wooden rocking chair finally poor walked home with head hung down rocked back forth silly imagine could silence quite whoever heard
