

The Banana that Spoke Story Mat

Once upon a time there was a gardener who lived in a village. One day he felt a rumble so he went out to pick a banana. To his amazement the banana spoke and said, "Hands off! Looked at the monkey you said. Aargh! I screamed fast and ran until I came to the market. The greengrocer said I couldn't carry the vegetables because I was why? I was running when the sun was bright. He asked me to go to the carrot field next to the farmer's cow. I replied, "It isn't possible in that field." The farmer said, "You're a cow!"

After that, I moped. The Queen was walking in a splendid castle. I was feeling rather sad. I walked back and forth in the garden. I was finally poor. I walked home feeling quite sad. I walked back and forth in the garden. I was finally poor. I walked home feeling rather sad. I walked back and forth in the garden. I was finally poor. I walked home feeling

